

Fern Identification Course

Treborth Botanic Garden, Bangor

13th September 2014

Local naturalist David Hill led an excellent and informative course about ferns on Saturday 13th September, held at Treborth botanic gardens. Lucia Ruffino was also present to help with ID in the field and was another source of information during the indoor teaching. David took us through an introduction to ferns and their lifecycle, he then moved on to different parts of the fern and the steps to take when identifying them. This was followed by a walk around the gardens finding and identifying the plentiful ferns using the knowledge gained in the morning. It was a very interesting day and well received by all who took part.
